Letter from Leadership

Dear Friends of the Community Foundation of North Central Massachusetts,

The 2020-21 program year is a blur. Like the rest of the world, we here in North Central Massachusetts continued to struggle to adjust to the pandemic reality. We were determined not to be sidelined and are proud of our ability to continue our regular grant programs, facilitate distributions by our generous fundholders and deliver COVID assistance to our nonprofit partners serving families in need.

The Foundation was honored to continue to be the conduit for significant aid to people and families whose lives were upended by the economic impacts of COVID 19. The Commonwealth of Massachusetts provided nearly $1 million to the Community Foundation as part of a statewide appropriation of $24 million. More than 8,000 area households received support through our non-profit partners related to housing, utilities, food, and an array of other essential needs.

At the same time, our competitive grant committees considered scores of applications and awarded 40 grants totaling $400,000 to worthy nonprofit initiatives across our region. These projects range from improving nature trails in Leominster and Fitchburg, celebrating the region's history with grants to the Abolitionist Park and the Wendell Meeting House, supporting entrepreneurship through the Wachusett Business Incubator, afterschool programming at the Boys and Girls Clubs and career advancement support by Dress for Success.

This year also saw the staff return to a renovated and expanded new space. Through the generosity of an anonymous donor, the building at 649 John Fitch Highway was remodeled to include new office space for Community Foundation staff and a new conference room shared with our United Way partners. With a clearly defined and distinct location, the Community Foundation is poised to welcome the world back once the pandemic has receded.

The growing reach and impact of the Community Foundation are a reflection of the generosity and foresight of our fundholders and volunteer board members, the ingenuity of local nonprofits, and the dedication of our staff. As the pandemic loosens its grip, we are excited by the possibilities.

Grantee Highlights

Seeds of Solidarity

Seeds of Solidarity Education Center is a non-profit organization based in Orange, MA that innovates programs to awaken the power among people of all ages–from toddlers to teens to people who are incarcerated–to Grow Food Everywhere to transform hunger to health and create resilient lives and communities. Since 1999, Seeds of Solidarity has been a regional leader in programs that promote food justice, farm to school, wellness among vulnerable populations, and community revitalization.

Women Healing Women Healing Earth is a new program for women in the North Quabbin region. This wellness, food security, and educational program supports women who have faced isolation (including as survivors of incarceration), poverty, chronic health issues, or racial injustice. The program is centered around a series of workshops and activities that teach skills in gardening, nutrition, body/mind wellness, self-care, and community building.

The COVID-19 pandemic has vastly reinforced the importance of communion with nature, increased personal and local food self-sufficiency, and strategies for self-care and wellness to strengthen body, mind and soul. It is a pivotal time for individuals and our communities, in order to emerge from this challenging time stronger. The skills for resilience, wellness, and community building in this program help heal personal lives while supporting the development of community changemakers.

Mass Audubon's Wachusett Meadow Wildlife Sanctuary

Mass Audubon's Wachusett Meadow Wildlife Sanctuary collaborated with Gardner Head Start to integrate nature-based teaching and learning into the school's social-emotional curriculum. Through the education and engagement of the teachers, children, and families, this year-long program used the natural world to support the Head Start goals of healthy social and emotional development in young children.

This program had a significant impact on the young learners, as well as their teachers and families. Because the program was done virtually through the early pandemic, parents and siblings often attended the virtual classroom sessions with the students (some even participated in the activities). Head Start teachers participated in science practices in the beautiful outdoors while experiencing first-hand the refreshing and calming effects of nature near the end of a challenging school year. Additionally, teachers became familiar with a local, natural resource accessible to them and their student families for future use and enjoyment. And it was clear that the children were growing, and meeting Head Start social-emotional goals.

Wachusett Meadow shared "One Head Start teacher was so inspired after the second Professional Development (PD)training that she began including video from her backyard wildlife camera in her virtual lessons. Previously, she said she lacked confidence to share the videos because she didn't feel she knew enough about nature to teach the children. After the PD, she expressed new confidence about sharing her enthusiasm for, and love of, nature with the children. She guided her students in searching for coyote eyeshine in the nighttime videos or counting squirrels walking on her stone wall. She encouraged her students to follow her lead and go outside to enjoy the benefits of nature. In the spring, this same teacher began taking her laptop outside for her virtual lessons. One day, she and her students witnessed a snapping turtle laying eggs in her vegetable garden! Everyone marveled at this amazing experience, and the children had the opportunity to increase their sense of wonder, empathy, and respect for the lives of other creatures."

Dr. Frank Healey Chemistry /STEM Scholarship Fund

The Children of Dr. Frank H. Healey established the Dr. Frank Healey Chemistry/STEM Scholarship Fund in his memory for Fitchburg students pursuing Chemistry/STEM college major.

Despite growing up in the Great Depression he became an excellent student of the sciences. He attended Holy Cross and Clark University, earning a Ph.D. by the young age of 23. After serving his country as a radar specialist in the US Navy in the Pacific at the close of WWII, he became a Professor of Chemistry at Lehigh University in 1948. That year he married the love of his life, the beautiful Loretta Finnigan, beginning a marriage that lasted almost 72 years!

Hired as a Research Scientist by Lever Brothers Company, he moved to Ridgewood in 1956. He quickly rose to become Director of Research in 1960 and Vice President of Research and Development in 1964. He retired in 1989 as President and Director of Lever Research and Development. He was instrumental in securing a multimillion dollar settlement for Lever Brothers in a patent infringement lawsuit against a major company in Canada.

He was an avid golfer and bowler most of his life. After retiring he and Loretta traveled the world, even landing in Antarctica. All of his life he was known as a "straight arrow" and earned the admiration and respect of all who knew him.

This scholarship fund has created a lasting legacy of their father that will live on forever.

Facing Covid-19

July 2020 to June 2021 was the heart of the COVID crisis in the world and in North Central Massachusetts. The economic impact of business closures was reflected in high unemployment and long lines for food and essentials at food pantries, schools, and senior centers.

Community foundations were recognized by private philanthropy and state government as an effective vehicle for delivering financial assistance. With our nonprofit partners, we distributed record amounts of financial aid in support of thousands of households across the region since the pandemic began.
The Community Foundation delivered more than $1 million in assistance to over 60 local nonprofit organizations providing a broad range of support for needy families and individuals. This included a wide array of meal production and distribution services, provision of essentials, outreach to people experiencing homelessness, support for a warming center, homeless services coordination, and financial aid to help cover utility bills, rent, and other key expenses of families hard hit by the economic effects of the pandemic.

We were also able to provide support to first responders. Grants to local hospitals allowed them to purchase personal protective equipment. We also provided funds to allow first responders to receive mental health counseling that fell outside their workplace insurance.

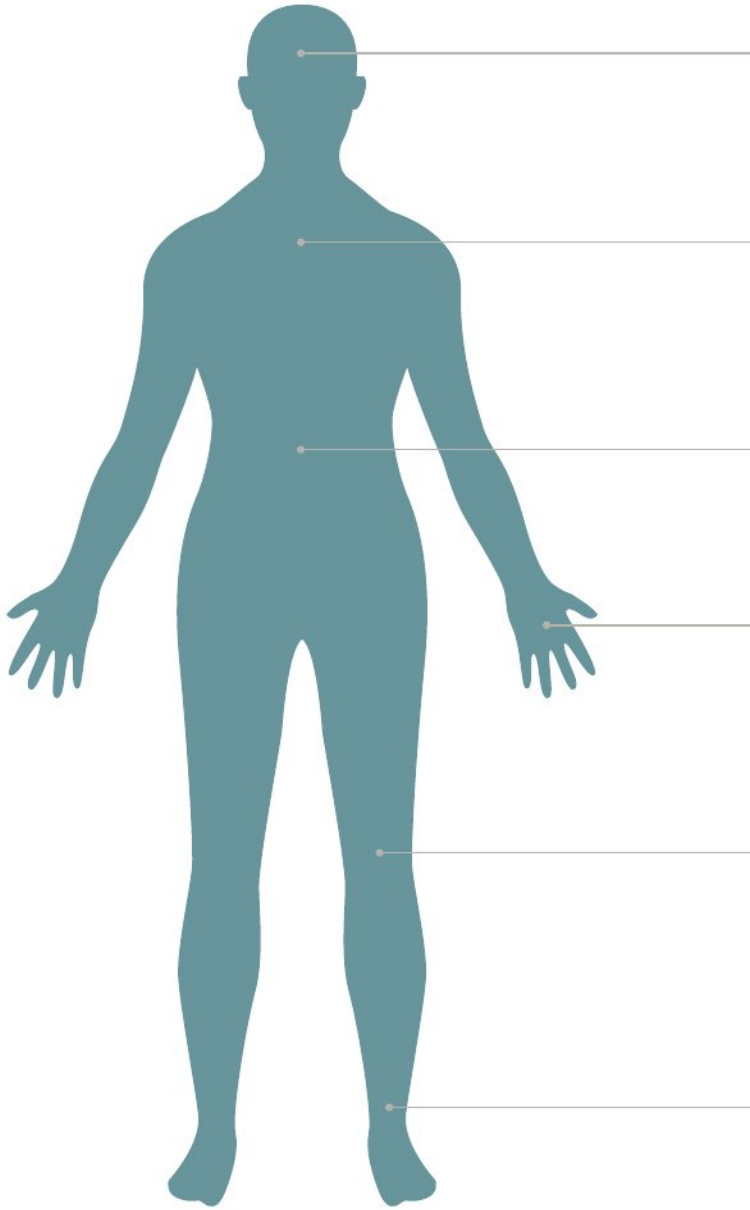

The fiscal year ended with word that the Commonwealth of Massachusetts would look to community foundations to move federal COVID aid to people in need.

North Central Massachusetts Housing First Working Group

The COVID pandemic brought the issue of homelessness in North Central Massachusetts into sharp relief for us at the Community Foundation. While temporary emergency services were bolstered, the problem of the lack of shelter for homeless individuals became even more severe. We learned that there is no low-threshold shelter for unhoused individuals anywhere in North Central Massachusetts.

In response, the Community Foundation has partnered with Central Massachusetts Housing Alliance (CMHA) to convene a working group of experts, municipal, state, and federal representatives, and service providers to identify and secure the community infrastructure necessary to support and sustain a long-term system of temporary housing options across North Central Massachusetts.

This appears to be an ideal moment for a collaborative effort to address this issue. There is a region-wide awareness of the gaps in shelter solutions for unhoused people and an understanding of how homelessness, mental health, joblessness and addiction are connected. At the same time, more State and Federal COVID funds are available to support homeless services. Finally, State officials are more aware of the lack of support in our region.

The lack of a central focal point for action has been a major barrier to targeting more state, federal and philanthropic resources on this problem, until now. The Community Foundation's role in supporting homeless services during the pandemic has uniquely positioned us to serve as a convener of the various stakeholders interested in addressing homelessness in North Central Massachusetts. This regional effort has given State officials more confidence in supporting a regional approach.

Since convening the Housing First Working Group, follow-up meetings of stakeholders are underway in Clinton, Fitchburg/ Leominster, Gardner and Athol/Orange to quantify the need and identify options for providing suitable shelter for unhoused individuals.

Embracing diversity

North Central Massachusetts Racial Equity Fund

Recent events have highlighted the persistent and systematic ways that both implicit bias and institutional racism have contributed to depriving Black, Hispanic, and other people of color from reaching their full potential in education, health, and economic development. This deprives North Central Massachusetts of strong, active, and inclusive relationships between a diversity of residents.

In response to this complex and pervasive problem Sue and Bob Lotz made an initial financial gift to create the Racial Equity Fund for North Central Massachusetts. This donation will serve as a catalyst to attract like-minded individuals and organizations to this cause and consider making financial gifts that will expand and deepen the impact of the Racial Equity Fund. "When Sue and Bob first approached the community foundation with this idea, I was thrilled to assist them in establishing the Racial Equity Fund. It is a need in our community and has the potential to have a huge positive impact on our community". said Linda Mack, Vice President of Philanthropy.

The Racial Equity Fund is an endowed fund that will promote more just, equitable and compassionate communities in North Central Massachusetts by providing grants to non-profit organizations working to advance racial equity and social justice. The Racial Equity Fund is focused on advancing racial justice and equity by identifying and working with non-profits that have professional experience and effective programs to serve and empower Black, Hispanic, and other communities of color.

An Advisory Committee has been established that includes community members of color who represent the diversity of North Central Massachusetts and board members of the Community Foundation. Below is the list of members on the advisory committee.

- Lucy Crocker Abisalih
- Steve Adams
- Ed Denmark
- Sheila King-Goodman
- Ted Lapres
- Sue Lotz
- Linda Mack
- Donata Martin
- Charisse Murphy

The staff and committee will work to coordinate and amplify philanthropic interest in our community for the growth of this fund. Every gift, whether large or small, will make a real difference. If you would like to donate to the fund you can do so by visiting https://cfncm.org/donate?fn=racial-equity-and-justice-fund.
